Review of minutes from September 7, 2021 meeting. Minutes were approved with an edit to reflect proper incoming class size.

The appeals roster was clear at the onset of the meeting. Committee members were assured that they would be notified as the rosters become more populated. Submission and notification deadlines were reviewed.

Open Discussion:

Cathy Crossland opened a discussion about student mental health and wellbeing. The committee discussed:

- the evaluation of mental health/wellbeing-related information in terms of student readiness to return
- the committee's responsibility and ability to ensure the student is getting the continued support that they may need
- It was noted that past iterations of the committee have had similar conversations about support for returning students
- Charles Clift shared information about a voluntary pilot program offered through university advising that included a re-entry course for students coming off suspension; the program wasn't continued after initial pilot
- Readmitted students receive an email upon re-entry that contains extensive information including information about connecting with academic advisors, class registration, student counseling, health services, tutoring etc.

- Conversation turned toward the questions of 1) who in a student's support services network is notified of their return, and 2) whether returning students have any sort of meeting to help reacclimate them to the university, its resources, etc.
- It was agreed that a subset of committee members would explore the possibility of a re-orientation for readmitted students: Cathy Crossland, Dave Provost, Tameshia Baldwin and Jordie Batts.
- Dave Provost pasted a list of NC State resources for students. The list can be found at the bottom of the meeting agenda

Dave Provost opened a discussion about technical issues with accessing Additional Documentation in the appeals portal. A few other members noted the same challenges. Charles Clift indicated that his team would look into the problem.
